EXPLANATORY NOTES

The records herein have been carefully checked for errors. It is hoped that few errors may be found. In some instances it has been quite difficult for the compiler to read the names as sent her. The researcher should bear in mind that errors are likely to occur in copying from the tombstones; this is inevitable unless a careful check is made from the stones by another person.

Look for all possible spellings of the names wanted; for example: Crist - Grist - grest - etc.

Names or dates underlined in these records indicate that the compiler was unable to determine which letter of figure was meant and therefore put both down on the record. Example: 1-16-1876 - 5 meaning 1875 or 1876
Summers n meaning Summers or Sumners.

Look in the center of the column for names; this is where the name of the parents are placed.

Abbreviations : b - born      d - died or daughter s - son        ch - child or children

All names are indexed, both parents and children, except infants not named.

A few names have no surname; these will be found on the last page of the index.

The compiler is sorry she did not place each cemetery on a sheet alone; this error was due to inexperience, as the typing was started on these records in 1936, just as they came to her, and it was thought best not to retype them due to the expense involved.

Glennon Killed; Once Iowa Official

Joseph R. Glennon of Evanston, Ill., former chief examiner of the Iowa state insurance department, was one of 63 victims of a Northwest Airlines plane crash Thursday near Tell City, Ind.

An accountant with Peat-Marwick-Mitchell & Co. in Chicago since 1953, he was going to Miami on a business trip.

Glennon was a native of Dubuque. He had served 10 years as chief examiner of the state insurance department, resigning in 1951 to take a similar position with the Illinois state insurance department.

He is survived by his widow Ann and a daughter, Mrs. James L. Canine of Iowa City.

William Eller, jr., 18, son of Dr. William Eller, former Waterloo physician, also was killed in the crash.

Young Eller, a student at Shattuck School in Faribault, Minn., was on his way to Florida to spend a vacation with his father, who recently moved his practice there. The youth's divorced mother lives with another son in California.

OBSERVE 100TH ANNIVERSARY OF DUBUQUE CHURCH

Dubuque, Ia., July 29, 1937. N. S.)—Dubuque today entered its second day of a centennial celebration that will last for a year.

More than 100 years old, the community is observing the one hundredth anniversary of the creation of the Catholic archdiocese of Dubuque.

The opening of the observance yesterday brought to Dubuque hundreds of high churchmen and laymen and a pontifical blessing from the pope at Rome.

Pope Pius XI sent his official representative in the United States—the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate, Washington, D. C., who officiated at the solemn pontifical mass in St. Raphael's cathedral, and delivered the principal address at a dinner in Columbia college auditorium last night.

More than thirty archbishops and bishops, forty monsignors, and several hundred priests from various parts of the United States attended the opening ceremonies.

Governor Kraschel, flanked by his aide, Adjutant General Charles Grahl, and State Treasurer Leo J. Wegman, occupied a prominent place in the church during the mass. Governor Kraschel also spoke at the dinner.

This year of solemnity, prayer and pageantry in the archdiocese of Dubuque, has one high light that outshines all the rest. It is the petition that will go to Rome for the papal beautification of the first bishop of the diocese, the Most Rev. Mathias C. Loras, sometimes called the "Sainly Loras."

Before the sermon yesterday messages were read from President Roosevelt and Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state who extended a congratulatory message from Pope Pius XI.

Among other things, President Roosevelt said: "Democracy will be safe whenever men in free worship turn their hearts and minds to God."

A CEMETERY IS REBORN WHERE WEEDS ONCE GREW UNMOLESTED

These two pictures above are typical of many cemeteries in the Dubuqueland area and their story is undoubtedly similar to many communities in the Tri-State. The two views were taken just a year apart at the Cascade, Ia., Protestant Cemetery. At the left is the cemetery as it appeared a year ago when weeds grew wild. At the right is the same cemetery but just a year later. During the past Summer donations amounting to $182, exclusive of labor, made the cemetery a more attractive place. Weeds were cut, monuments were re-set, and a gravel road was constructed into the grounds. The cemetery is known to be at least 95 years old. From 1887 to 1937 nothing was done to beautify the grounds, according to Secretary-Treasurer J. T. Bevan of the cemetery association. Although there is no record of the number of burials in the 703 lots, Bevan said 46 soldiers and one nurse are buried in the grounds. The beautifying work was done mostly by people who owned lots in the cemetery and those who were interested in the burial grounds.

This was a pretty cemetery in the early days but now only one lot has care, the rest are covered with weeds and bushes. A church was here at one time. About five houses are left in the village.
